Dear Sir/Madam,

Throughout my teaching and counselling career, I have developed a wealth of transferable skills including excellent communication and interpersonal skills, adaptability and developing problem solving skills in my students. I have a wealth of many years of diverse teaching/lecturing/counselling experience and am therefore both confident and flexible. I believe being creative sets me apart from other professionals as my lessons are engaging, innovative and stimulating, and of a consistently high standard. I am articulate with exceptional writing and editing skills that I gained through advertising. When teaching, I utilise my understanding, tolerance and compassion to help build, develop and maintain relationships at all levels. My leadership capabilities are used to inspire others to achieve their potential. Above all, I long to build lasting quality relationships with students thereby reaping the rewards of my dedication, hard work and the interactive experiences I share with them.

I desire a full-time position in education, either as a lecturer, teacher, counsellor or life-skills coach. I was working on contract until the end of 2017 at CURRO Meridian Cosmo City, teaching English (Grade 8) and Creative Arts (Grades 8 and 9). I moved home and did not renew the contract.

I am professional in my dealing with staff and students, showing excellent discretion and good judgement that comes from experience and maturity. I am able to mentor and counsel young people using my knowledge and expertise from both the educational and advertising worlds.

I believe I meet all the criteria to be a valuable asset and to bring credit to your institution. You can be assured of my total loyalty, dedication and commitment should I be successful in securing a position.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs Dido Blagden*
